Compressor suction and discharge pressures for R448A relative to R22 are given below. It may be necessary to reset the pressure cutouts to compensate for the different pressures of the replacement refrigerant. This procedure should be done carefully to avoid exceeding the recommended operating limits of the compressor and other system components.

Many refrigerant blends with low global warming potential (GWP) such as R448A, R449A, R450A, R452A and R513A contain the unsaturated compounds R1234yf and R1234ze(E). They are highly soluble in oil and lead to a strong reduction of viscosity. Therefore, sufficient superheat has to be ensured!

Oils for HFC and HFO refrigerants

Danfoss Maneurop reciprocating compressors won't be available for R448/R449A as the operating map is smaller than for R404A. Instead, we recommend using R452A - which is the same advice given by all reciprocating compressor manufacturers. -> For more information, see at Coolselector.danfoss.com with a special eye for the moment towards R449A. R449A gives a GWP far lower than 65% compared to the actual R404A and 507A, and being non flammable enters the A1 flammability class. This means that changing in a system from R404A to R449A there are no particular restrictions following the ATEX normative.
